

GENUINE INGREDIENTS. LOVING SEASONING.

Welcome to a close dining experience in an environment from times when spinning machines thumped, dust lay like a dense fog in the factory and when the workdays were ten hours or more. Properly renovated and updated for our time, of course. But feel free to lower your gaze and admire the rustic floor. That's not something you just tear up. Nääs Fabriker was a special workplace. There was thoughtfulness here. Those who worked in the factory lived for free. They got a small potato field, a pig and if the wallet was empty, soup every day.

This thoughtfulness is something we want to pass on to our cooking. We prefer to use local ingredients, or a short distance from here. We cook them with lots of love and classic Swedish techniques such as smoking, curing, pickling and salting. In addition, we grow some of the vegetables, herbs and other plants that we use in the cooking. That we also have our own beehives is a declaration of love for nature and all things locally produced. Since we prefer to work with ingredients that are in-season, our menu follows the changing of the seasons. Because seasonal foods simply taste better.

A HISTORICAL START TO A MODERN MEAL

When Peter Wilhelm Berg and his son Johan Theodor Berg started building Nääs Fabriker in 1833, we guess that the most common drink was a hearty grog or a straight brandy. Even though there were more sophisticated drinks and cocktails at the time. Old Fashioned, which gained momentum with the Mad Men series, became popular in the early 19th century and Aperol Spritz was created in 1919 by the Barbieri brothers. Say James Bond and you immediately think of a Vesper Martini, Cosmopolitan is now associated with Sex and the City, while Ernest Hemingway is associated with the Mojito. In the movie The Big Lebowski, the main character The Dude drinks uncontrollable amounts of White Russian, when Humphrey Bogart toasts with Ingrid Bergman in the classic Casablanca, it's French 75 in the glasses and in the movie In the Hottest Team, Marilyn Monroe chooses a Manhattan. We would love to mix you one of these, or any other classics. But why not try one of our own creations. Over time, they can also very well become classics.

OUR HERBGARDEN

We grow a large part of the herbs that we use in our cooking. The spice garden is just around the corner.

We have our own small greenhouse, we grow a little outdoors, including spring onions and we have set up hop poles for the production of our own beer. We always try to use the whole plants, not only the leaves, but also the stems and in some cases, the root.

SHALL WE START WITH A GLASS?

Start the evening off right by trying one of our new drinks. Or why not try one of our very own craft beers, brewed just a couple of doors down? We look forward to serving you tonight.

THE SMALL DELI WITH THE BIG HEART

In our deli Gustavas Handel & Kök, you'll find delicious ingredients of the highest quality where good taste is at the forefront. It all started in 1824 when Johanna Gustafva Berg and her family moved to Nääs Castle. In 1833, her husband Peter Wilhelm Berg founded the cotton spinning mill Nääs Fabriker, and the industrial community of Tolleröd emerged with several essential functions for the factory workers. Gustavas Handel & Kök is a reminder of Nääs Fabriker's long and fascinating history of craftsmanship.

CHOOSE THE RIGHT WINE FOR EACH DISH

Choosing wine is about a balance, where neither wine nor food should dominate. That is why we complement our bottled wine with a wide range of wines by the glass. This way, you can combine each dish with a wine that harmonizes. Choose from bubbly drinks that start the dinner a little more festively, wines that go well with starters and main courses and slightly sweeter friends that will be good with dessert. We have added fine organic wines to the range. Of course, we also have non-alcoholic alternatives. There is plenty to choose from, so we are happy to help you make your choice.

THE DRINKS THAT LIFT THE FOOD

The food always tastes a little bit better together with selected drinks. It is also the opposite – most drinks taste better if they are combined with . We have a wide range of drinks to match our main tastes – the sour, sweet, salty, bitter and umami. Together with our own preferences, this matters for how we combine food and drink.

SOMETHING SWEET WITH YOUR COFFEE?

The sweets are something quite special here at Nääs Fabriker. Cakes, pastries and pralines are made by our pastry chefs and signed by our head pastry chef Disa Molin, the Pastry Chef of the Year 2018. Additionally, you can order our cakes for any big celebrations or for someone who deserves something extra delicious. The desserts in this menu are made in Fabriksköket.
